Room 314, Dalhousie

Student Union Building

Dear Faculty Member,

The Dalhousie Science Society will be hosting the first Dalhousie Science Symposium on March 20th, 2013 in the McInnes room of the SUB, from 11:00am-4:00pm. The conference will feature keynote speakers from Dalhousie, and is meant to showcase undergraduate research at our institution.

Students who have a research poster will be able to register starting January 21st at noon, and closing on March 8th at 11:00pm—there are only 30 available spots for undergraduate students. Judges will be present to rate each poster based on a variety of criteria including, organization of the poster and ability to communicate research. There is no individual oral presentation, or thesis defense component, to the Dalhousie Science Symposium; Participants should only be prepared to explain their findings to those who visit their poster board. Prizes will be awarded to the top three posters, as determined by the judges.

More information can be found on our website, thedss.ca. If you should have any questions, please contact us at, dss@dal.ca. We ask that this information be circulated within your department, and student participation encouraged.

We look forward to your involvement,

Emma Herrington and William Lin
President and Vice President of the DSS
